COUNCIL'S £86,000 REBRAND PANNED

New-look design 'looks like something a child could have done'

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A BID to rebrand Haringey Council was launched this week amid scathing criticism over its £86,000 cost and its new-look logo which some say "looks like a child could have done it".

The local authority has ditched its familiar starburst logo – itself updated just seven years ago as part of a previous rebrand – in favour of a new design comprising the word Haringey in stylised red type with the word London in smaller black type beneath. The council decided a new visual brand identity is needed which better captures the "vibrancy, passion and creativity" of its residents and businesses.

The logo, pictured right, was unveiled on Monday at the launch of the council's I'm In campaign, which encourages residents to "stand up for Haringey".

Councillor Joe Goldberg, cabinet member for economic development and social inclusion, explained: "We need an identity that is optimistic and ambitious for the future, that reflects our promise and potential rather than the past. Haringey is one of London's great boroughs, a fantastic place to live and work and it's time we started shouting about this."

But with vital services already axed as part of £70million of council cutbacks because of reduced government funding, some opponents have branded it a waste of public money.

Almost half of the budget, £40,000, went on commissioning a brand agency, with another £20,000 on a 90-second promotional film.

Changing the signs on council buildings and council dustcarts cost another £16,000, while £7,500 will be spent on providing staff with new ID cards and a further £2,489 on pin badges for them incorporating the new logo.

Liberal Democrat councillor Clive Carter, who represents Highgate ward, said: "It is a frivolous waste of expenditure and will anger a lot of people. The £20,000 for the 90-second promotional film alone works out at £220 a second."

Tottenham Hale resident and activist Martin Ball described the logo, as "something a child with a marker pen could have done", adding: "It's an insult when the council is cutting vital services for the frail and vulnerable."

"It shows the council is preoccupied with presentation and divorced from reality. If it wants the public to recognise it then it should start providing decent services like sweeping the streets and carrying out repairs."

Man jailed for attempted rape

A TOTTENHAM man who attempted to rape a sleeping woman after climbing a drainpipe to get into his victim's home has been jailed for six years.

Danilo Silva, 33, pictured right, of Jansons Road, gained access to the victim's Brent home on the morning of July 5 last year by shinning up a drainpipe and getting in through a first-floor window.

He was found guilty by a jury at Isleworth Crown Court on Monday September 14 on charges of attempted rape and indecent assault.

The woman had been able to identify Silva following her ordeal and he was arrested.

Evidence gathered within the property and outside the address by police forensics officers linked Silva to the crime.

Labour's double

IT was a double triumph for Labour as they comfortably held both seats in two Haringey Council by-elections held on Thursday.

Stephen Mann was elected in Noel Park ward gaining 1,005 votes with the Liberal Democrats trailing in second place with 247 votes.

Peter Mitchell romped to victory in Woodside ward with 1,279 votes with Lib Dems in the runners-up spot with 435 votes.

The Noel Park seat became vacant after Councillor Denise Marshall quit due to ill health. She sadly died last month. The Woodside by-election was triggered by the death of long-serving councillor and former council leader, George Mehan.

Police appeal for information following discovery of man's body

DETECTIVES believe Haringey residents could hold vital clues in their hunt for the killer of a man found shot dead and partially buried in east London.

The body of Hidir Aksakal, 53, was found on Wednesday September 16 in a shallow grave close to a pond and popular beauty spot in Leytonstone.

The victim, who is also known as Musa Yakut, but more commonly by his nickname Boxer Cetin, lived in Margate, but was well known in the Green Lanes area of Haringey where he had previously lived.

He was last seen alive three and half weeks ago in the early hours of Monday, August 17 in Green Lanes.

This week police issued a photo of Mr Aksakal in the hope it will jog the memory of anyone who saw him and appealed to the community – many of them Turkish or Turkish Cypriot – to come forward with information.

Police say they are exploring a number of

lines of enquiry – one of them that he had a criminal past and links with criminals. "Our investigation is ongoing and we are exploring a number of lines of enquiry," said Detective Chief Inspector Jamie Piscopo, from the Homicide and Major Crime Command. "I would specifically like to ask for the help of the local community in the Green Lanes area where Cetin was well known locally, and had previously lived in the area.

"He was out and about in the area during the evening of Sunday, August 16, and the last confirmed sighting of him was in the early hours of Monday, August 17.

"If you saw him that Sunday night, or any time after, then I would like to hear from you."

"We are building a picture of Cetin's movements up to that evening and someone may have vital information. We are working on the basis that Cetin was murdered shortly after the last sighting of him."

Police are also keen to speak to members of the public who may have noticed any unusual or suspicious activity in the weeks before his body was found at Hollow Ponds, Leytonstone.

"Anyone who thinks they may have information can contact us, your information will be treated in confidence," said Det Chief Insp Piscopo.

Council defends cuts after £4.4m library refurb

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

COUNCIL bosses insist that lavish spending on the latest flagship library in the borough is not another nail in the coffin of smaller libraries scheduled for closure.

Ayfer Orhan, the cabinet member with responsibility for children and education, spoke to the Advertiser as the new Palmers Green Library opened in Broomfield Lane on Monday after extensive refurbishment costing £4.4million.

The new library features interactive information screens, an extended children's section, and a raft of features designed as study spaces for students and school pupils, as well as improved IT systems.

The cabinet member said that the new library is one of four "flagship" libraries that the council will focus around.

The plans passed by councillors before the summer mean that the local authority will concentrate its resources on these four libraries, while the 13 other libraries will be run on a smaller scale in partnership with volunteer organisations and even, Ms Orhan has suggested, business groups.

Asked about the fears that focusing on four modern libraries will mean that smaller libraries are neglected and will die, Ms Orhan said she was determined to maintain a strong public library service in Enfield despite deep cuts to the local government grant.

"When I took over the library portfolio I knew that I wanted to retain our library service," she said.

"The fundamental issue in my view is that libraries are fundamental to the education, learning and cultural development of people, particularly young people, in the borough."

"It was always crucial to me that we retain a strong library service to serve people throughout Enfield."

She said that while the smaller libraries will see their staffing levels reduced, the way in which people use libraries has also changed.

"People need books, and nowadays they also need access to the internet. They might need advice with things like paying their council tax online and I imagine these smaller spaces acting like mini civic centres with people able to drop in and ask for advice on a whole range of issues."

Library users in the borough have, in the past, expressed concern that librarians would lose their jobs as the council turns to volunteers to fill gaps where the authority can no longer afford to pay their staff.

However, Ms Orhan insisted that residents should step forward to volunteer for the library service to help and complement professional librarians.

"We all have banks of knowledge in our brains that we can use to help the library service."

"Our memories and experiences are invaluable and we should always look to using that for other people's benefit," she added.

While neighbouring Barnet Council has sparked outrage by proposing to axe nearly all its libraries, Ms Orhan said Enfield was determined the service will flourish and was looking at working with private companies which may lease space from the library buildings and channel profits back into the service.

She said: "The best thing about Monday was seeing the very small babies clambering all over the interactive boards – it shows how children today are so comfortable with technology."

"Our new library reflects and caters for this."

The cost of refurbishing Palmers Green Library was partly funded through the council's recent sale of Southgate Town Hall.

It's London calling for Hollywood star Natalie

In the frame: Natalie Marie Ames is back in London to make her own film

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AN actress from Enfield who has made movies in Hollywood is back in London making her own film.

Natalie Marie Ames, who studied at the Lavender Primary School in Lavender Road and Chace Community school in Churchbury Lane, will soon be on the big screen in the UK in the thriller Criminal.

The movie also stars Kevin Costner and fellow British actors Gary Oldman and Alice Eve.

She plays a British news reporter in the film and said: "It's an intelligent thriller. I play someone who is very direct and down the line."

Natalie, who divides her time between homes in California and her family home in Hardy Way, will also be seen in an indie comedy, Larry Gaye: Renegade Male Flight Attendant. In the film she finds herself the brunt of a joker who is trying to save his job from cost-cutting measures.

Ms Ames flew out to Los Angeles during the summer of 2012, taking just a suitcase.

She said she had some driving lessons to adapt to the other side of the road and joined an acting class as well as researching the best agents. She also helped teach American actors to speak with a British accent.

Attendance at film festivals also helped boost her career, she said.

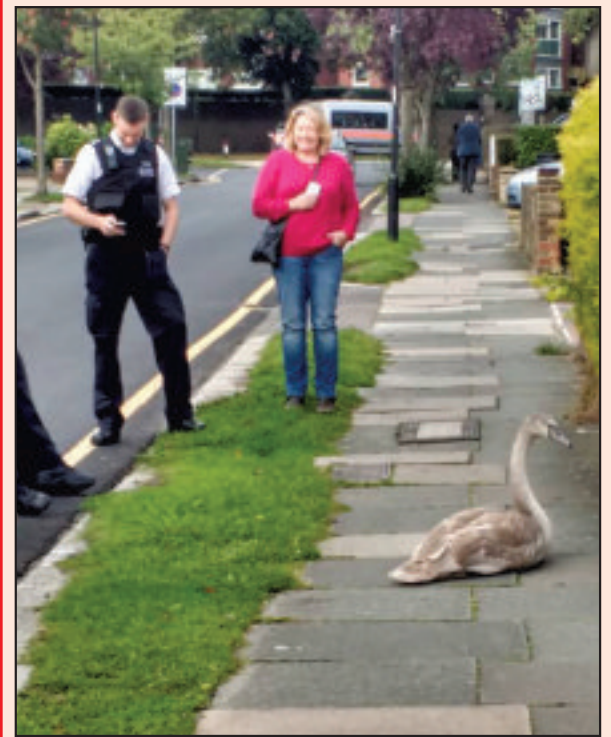

"I started to do my own work, to get some control. You also get some respect that you are taking some initiative," the 33-year-old said.

Her trip back home will include a month's filming of a short film called Strangers On The Ledge, which she wrote and will produce.

"It's self-funded. It's about lost people meeting one evening under a bridge. I was going to shoot it in LA but I think it suits London better, with people walking round the city. It tackles depression and mental health."

Ms Ames said she did some acting at school, but suffered from shyness. However, she acted during breaks from her graphic design course at Southampton Institute and subsequently studied drama.

Enfield audiences may have seen her in The Two Gentlemen of Verona at Grange Park Theatre. She has also appeared at the King's Head Theatre in Islington, Baron's Court Theatre in west London, and the Royal Festival Hall.

You're nicked: Police take down the cygnet's particulars

Juvenile delinquent

POLICE had to call for assistance after complaints of a swan obstructing the public highway in Southgate.

The beautiful long-necked bird plonked itself down on the pavement in Wynchgate and refused to budge, early on Friday morning.

The cygnet landed in the street after it had flown over the rooftops from nearby Grovelands Park, where it is one of a family of swans which nest at the park's lake.

After repeated failed attempts to take-off again it settled down in the middle of the pavement.

Concern for its safety and the safety of the public prompted passers-by making their way to work to call police, who then stood guard waiting for the RSPCA to arrive and assist in its rescue.

"It didn't seem fazed by the attention at all," said publishing editor, Rebecca Sheppard, who lives in Wynchgate and took the photo on her journey to work.

"It was just sitting there oblivious. It really was hilarious," she added.

The bird was eventually carried on a special stretcher by a RSPCA handler and returned to the park's lake

"The swans are a treasured feature of the park and its wildlife," said Michael McDonagh, events organiser for The Friends of Grovelands Park users group.

"There are a family of about eight swans and many of the new-born chicks this year have survived to become cygnets.

"Swans find it easier to take off from water and sometimes have difficulty getting airborne from the land and this is what seems to have happened to this particular swan," he added.

Anee's on the trail of a bargain

A TREASURE trail with a difference is taking place in the borough this weekend.

The Enfield Jumble Trail on Sunday will see residents around Southbury Road set up a series of American-style yard sales in front of their homes.

Tables of DVDs, CDs, clothes and bric-a-brac will be set up within a mile radius of each other and will all be marked with pins on Google Maps.

Shoppers looking for a rare find or accidental antique can use the map to walk the length of the trail in the hopes of bagging a bargain.

The event is sponsored by the North London Waste

Authority who helped Anee with the cost of printing leaflets to publicise the event.

The NWLA is keen for residents to think twice about simply throwing things away without thinking of the consequences of swallowing up even more landfill space.

Organising the weekend's event is Southbury Road resident Anee Patel, 30, who felt that a hunt for jumble would be good for the whole community.

"My partner and I have lived in this house for six years and we don't know that many people apart from our immediate neighbours.

"And this is an opportunity to meet other people who live in our street and in the neighbourhood," she said.

"Some people have joined up because they need to declutter, others think it seems like fun, and people can get creative with their stalls and do things like setting up a lemonade stall and get kids being enterprising."

Anyone interested in getting involved on the day is encouraged to do so using social media.

People can get in touch with the organisers through @jumbletrailenfield on Twitter, by logging on to <http://www.jumbletrail.com/event/enfield> or by liking the Jumble Trail community group on Facebook.

Splendid crop of attractions

By Julia Gregory

GARDENERS from city farms and community gardens displayed the fruits of their labour at a harvest festival with an urban twist at Capel Manor College.

The renowned horticultural centre hosted the 17th annual City Harvest Festival, which is organised by the Federation of London City Farms and Community Gardens to showcase their educational and neighbourhood achievements.

It gave the public a chance to meet and quiz the volunteers, staff and young farmers who work on projects across the capital.

Attractions included falconry displays and a chance to meet urban beekeepers and learn more about the need to plant bee-friendly flowers.

Capel Manor ran a preserve contest to find the best jams and pickles and visitors could also admire the range of chillies grown at the college, in Bullsmoor Lane.

Saturday's event, which also included a country show and crafts and food produced across London, finished with a tug'o'war contest.

Relaunch aims to bring market right up to date

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

IT'S one of the UK's oldest markets, having been granted a royal charter by Edward 1 more than 700 years ago – but historic Enfield Town Market is to be transformed from next month with a modern 21st century overhaul.

The struggling market, which made a loss for the first time last year, is to be relaunched on Thursday, October 1.

One of only three markets in the country to be operated by a charity, it is to get a new lease of life with an £80,000 investment from the Old Enfield Charitable Trust which runs it.

Consultants have been brought in in a bid to revive its fortunes.

Ellie Gill, a member of the Market Doctors consultancy brought in by the charity, as well as an adviser to the National Association of British Market Authorities, said: "The charity should be commended for recognising that changes need to be made and sticking to their commitment to deliver a market that is fit for purpose in the 21st century.

"The market has to adapt to the changing needs and shopping habits of local people, so there will be later opening hours until 5.30pm on weekdays, instead of shutting at 3.30pm at present."

The market, which opens on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, is to get an 80-seater all-weather food court, with all stalls replaced by new gazebos.

Less than half the existing 70 market pitches had been occupied, but the number of pitches has been increased to 80 and new traders recruited, and it now has a 100 per cent occupancy rate.

"There will be more professionalism in the way the market is managed and how traders run their businesses," said Ellie.

"The market will also be wi-fi enabled and traders will be encouraged to embrace new technology taking payments through mobiles phones," she added.

The relaunch is being held over three days and coincides with British Food Fort-night.

PCSO cuts 'a real cause for concern'

MP alarmed by possible loss of 42 PCSOs

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

THE implications of a shake-up which could mean the loss of all 42 of Enfield's police community support officers (PCSOs) will be on the table when Enfield North MP Joan Ryan meets borough commander Jane Johnson on Friday.

Ms Ryan will be meeting Enfield Borough police commander Ms Johnson, to discuss the future of police community support officers (PCSOs) after it was revealed the remaining posts in the borough could be scrapped, because of central government cuts to the Metropolitan Police's budget.

The Met's management board will meet on Tuesday September 29 to consider three options: axing all but one PCSO per electoral ward across each London borough, leaving 629 in total; retaining the current structure; or scrapping all 1,017 posts across the capital.

The figure of 42 PCSOs as of August 2015, is down from 160 in August 2010. Since 2010, 3,170 PCSOs have been cut London-wide as part of an ongoing process which will see almost £600million cut from the Metropolitan Police budget by next year.

Ms Ryan, who has also written to Home Secretary Theresa May, London Mayor Boris Johnson and Metropolitan Police Commissioner Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe to raise her concerns, pointed out that in the 12 months to July 2015, total crime in the capital had risen by 3.5 per cent, while violent crime in Enfield borough had risen by 23 per cent during the same period.

The Labour MP explained: "There is nothing more important for people than feeling safe in their homes and on their streets, but the Tories are putting the safety of our community at risk. We expect so much from the police, but they need the resources to do their job."

"PCSOs are an absolutely vital part of visible neighbourhood policing. These cuts – if implemented – would not be fair on the police service and would be of real concern to Enfield residents, especially given the rise in violent crime and the recent, high-profile cases of shootings and stabbings in the borough."

A Met spokeswoman said the meeting was part of "a comprehensive review into how policing services will be delivered in London against a background of continued budgetary pressures".

She said the £800m which the Met is expected to save over the next four years could rise further with the Government's impending comprehensive spending review.

Metropolitan Police commander Lucy D'Orsi, who is leading the neighbourhood policing project, said: "Like local communities we very much value PCSOs and their role in community engagement, and they have been an integral part of the safer neighbourhoods model from the start. However, the financial pressures we are facing mean that we have a duty to consider all options available in order to meet those challenges and to ensure we deliver a quality policing service to London's communities."

Looking to the future: Labour's Joan Ryan MP (top) is meeting borough commander Jane Johnson on Friday

Warning after spate of thefts from sheds

WITH the rise of high-end sheds that have started to grace back gardens in the borough, Enfield Council is calling on owners of the "man caves" and "sheila sheds" to ramp up their security after a spate of thefts.

Council bosses have linked up with the police in issuing stark warnings to residents about the free rein given to thieves by leaving sheds and outbuildings unlocked which allows them to make off with bikes, power tools and even lawnmowers.

They are calling on homeowners to install security lights around the building and urge people to pay particular attention to sheds that can be accessed directly from the street.

The council chief with responsibility for community safety, Yasemin Brett, said: "Many people underestimate the value of the items in their sheds and how quickly a thief can take a chance and steal valuables."

"There are some simple measures residents can take to make their sheds more secure, but our main advice is to reiterate that doors and windows need to be locked to keep criminals out."

"Sometimes tools are stolen from sheds which are later used to commit burglary, so keep your shed safe."

Assistant Detective Inspector Grant Anderson from Enfield police said: "Officers are patrolling the area and doing all they can to look for potential offenders and will be stopping any suspicious people or vehicles."

"We're asking for the support of local residents though to help prevent these crimes taking place."

"We're also asking people to let us know if they see anything at all unusual in their community. If you do see anything suspicious please call 101."

Council to buy houses to cut homelessness

Four boroughs will work together to purchase new homes

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

HOUSING chiefs have launched a bid to stem the rising tide of homelessness in the borough by securing swathes of properties to let to hard-up residents.

In a motion passed by the council's decision-making body at the Civic Centre in Silver Street on Wednesday evening, the town hall decided to enter into a buying consortium with three other local authorities.

Under the new arrangement Enfield Council will work with Redbridge, Newham and Waltham Forest authorities to work collectively to try and find large volumes of homes which would be suitable to house people left homeless as a result of rent hikes and the government's housing benefit cap.

While the report presented to councillors this week states that people would only be housed outside Enfield in certain circumstances, the four-way partnership means that the boroughs could work together to house people.

That could mean that some Enfield residents find themselves housed outside the borough.

Laying out the need for measures the report stated: "Rents have increased, and the gap between these rents and the Local Housing Allowance – now set at only one-third of rents – is deterring property owners from letting to families on benefits and/or low incomes."

The amount of money families can claim to help pay rents has been capped at £500 a week – below the market rate for a family home.

With rents in London continuing to rise exponentially, many residents are being evicted and are ending up in rent arrears.

The council is currently trying to house homeless families and individuals in overnight emergency accommodation such as bed and breakfasts and hotels.

But the report outlines that this short-term approach cannot be maintained as the cost to the council could rise to as much as £7.6million in 2015/16.

Projected figures show that by entering into the consortium the council could save £3,250 per property per year if it can secure 250 long-term lets.

Working with the other councils to try and find accommodation in the private rented sector that they can secure on a long-term basis, Enfield Council will attempt to find landlords it can work with who will not evict tenants in order to bring in residents who can afford to pay higher rents.

Ahmet Oykener, the cabinet member for housing, explained that while the council will not be buying property to use as social housing, it will use its partnership with the other local authorities to enter into collective bargaining with landlords in the borough to secure long-term lets.

He said that although landlords make more money from the short-term nightly lets, he believes landlords will be keen to enter into longer-term agreements with local authorities as the council will help with management and maintenance of the property.

He admitted that while sometimes an Enfield resident would be housed in one of the neighbouring co-operating boroughs, it would only be in exceptional circumstances.

He told the Advertiser: "You have to bear in mind things like childcare, support networks and schools."

"Working together will enable us to procure larger amounts of accommodation and drive down the cost of housing families in desperate need of a safe roof over their head."

Developer unveils plans for mansion

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A HOUSING developer has announced its plans for an historic mansion house in the borough.

The Berkeley Group has bought the historic Grade II mansion house in the heart of Trent Park, which borders Enfield and Barnet, and intends to restore it to its former glory.

The former Middlesex University Campus has been derelict since the Malaysian University which bought it in 2013 hit financial difficulties last year.

Residents and park-lovers had feared the building, which was the site of a covert intelligence operation in the Second World War whereby British spies bugged the entire mansion to listen in to clandestine conversations between the captured Germans, would be left to crumble.

There was an attempt led by MP for Enfield Southgate David Burrowes to secure "asset of community value" status for the building.

However this proposal failed and the Berkeley Group moved

Sold: Trent Park's mansion house has been sold to developers The Berkeley Group in to acquire the house and surrounding land.

Now the MP has come out in favour of the group's purchase.

David Burrowes said of the purchase: "I welcome the opportunity for full public engagement to determine and secure the future of Trent Park's wonderful heritage and environment."

But in a bid to allay fears surrounding public access to the site, the developers insist that although there will be housing on the site, they will also focus on restoring the grounds and house with the community in mind.

Chairman of the Berkeley Group Tony Pidgley said: "Berkeley intends to respect the site's historic importance to the local area, the community's desire to retain public access and revive the listed mansion house, as well as retaining and respecting the listed statues and grounds."

The Berkeley Group will be launching a consultation process ahead of submitting development proposals to Enfield Council.

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Chickenshed Theatre

PICTURE the scene – you are propping up the bar of a pub, somewhere in the UK. The DJ is playing Kylie and Jason's Especially For You, and you have just ordered a pint of dark ale and a cocktail with an umbrella. The front page of the Today newspaper is proclaiming the fall of the Berlin Wall.

Have you gone back in time? It's clearly 1989! Not necessarily – you could just be at Chickenshed about to see our latest production TWO, which opens on October 7.

I don't want to give too much away at this stage – but I can assure you all that our version of this multi award-winning play by internationally acclaimed dramatist Jim Cartwright featuring 14 diverse characters portrayed by just two actors, will be impressive, exceptional and memorable.

And now (for something completely different!) I wanted to let you know that Chickenshed will be opening our doors to the entire community for our Family Fun Day on Sunday October 4.

We have an exciting range of activities, including our popular 3K Fun Run, a Toddler Charge, interactive games, a fancy dress competition, performances of Tales from Shed and an opportunity to meet lots of interesting characters from our shows. But best of all, it is completely free!

So, as always, an exciting few weeks coming up at Chickenshed. Please visit our website if you would like more information about our events – or do pop into our theatre for a coffee and speak to any of our staff. We would love to meet you!

Treat us as adults – and give us proper answers

I WOULD love to support the Cycle Enfield scheme for Enfield Town. I agree with all the aims and why it is being done and would wholeheartedly back it if I didn't live on one of the roads affected by the closure of Church Street.

However I live in Cecil Road, which would on the face of it need to take all the load from Church Street. I think even the most ardent supporter of the plan would have questions in this situation. These questions are not being answered by the council. They are either being ignored or answered in 'broad conclusions'.

This, I'm afraid, smacks of management not consultation. If at present the raw data on items such as pollution etc is not available then it's either not been collected or is unpalatable. Both answers will make residents affected suspicious.

Further actions such as running traffic flow analysis in the school holidays and turning up to the Enfield

Show with only the plans for Palmers Green seems like more stage managing for a positive response.

Treat people like adults, answer their questions with research and facts not hyperbole and don't make their conclusions for them.

You may just be surprised how many people affected will agree with the scheme.

What happened to Chalky White?

I THINK it's pretty safe to say that many of your readers would have served in the Royal Navy at some time or other.

The older ones seeing service in World War II and would no doubt recently have been casting their thoughts back to the end of the war, either in Europe or later Japan, with all of the commemorations around the country, those who are a little younger being called up for National Service, and the younger still serving in our much-reduced Royal Navy.

One thing is certain: they will all think back and remember the camaraderie and friendships formed at the time, only to be broken when moved to a different ship or shore base.

There will be the occasional thoughts being cast back to "I wonder what happened to old Chalky White on HMS Rustybucket?"

Well a lot have found out what happened to their 'Old Chalky White' because lots of the ships have associations, full of their old shipmates and a new monthly service has recently started to help find all of the other Old Chalkies or whoever is being looked for. "Those in the Buffer's party at HMS Collingwood in the mid-1950s" or "That chef off HMS Tupperware in 1988" because many of the Ship's Association Secretaries are sending details of their reunions to R.N.Shipmates for the monthly listings of reunions and other notices.

This monthly service is totally free because it is all done by email. No printing. No photocopying. No paper. No envelopes. No stamps.

Are you on my monthly mailing list? Nearly 400 are. Looking for someone? This is a good start point in meeting up at a reunion and "swinging that lamp". Get in next month's mailout. Get the latest news.

Did you serve in the Electrical Branch in the Royal Navy? Exciting news coming up soon if you did!

And for those who just want to relive the camaraderie again, R.N.Shipmates is having another reunion next April.

Interested? Set your memory going again? Send brief details to mike.crowe1@btinternet.com

Look forward to receiving your email.

There's no excuse for abusing medical staff

I HAVE been to Chase Farm hospital blood unit quite a few times recently. Sometimes you are in and out in a short time, sometimes you are not. I waited an hour and I am sure people wait a lot longer.

However, I am not writing to complain. The staff were polite and courteous even though they were clearly under real pressure.

The Ukrainian gentleman who took my blood was very frustrated and stressed that there were lots of people waiting, in excess of 20 with more arriving less than an hour before closing time at 7.30pm, and only three staff. He told me that he works from 8am to 8pm, rarely with a break and when they close the doors so they can get through the backlog before closing they get people banging on the doors, getting abusive, so much so that they have to call security.

The staff are doing their very best in a very busy department. I met a lady in the waiting room who had travelled from Mill Hill because it was the nearest for her where no appointment was necessary. Surely there should be some other centres opened to take the pressure off Chase Farm?

People were arriving late further adding to the problem. I work full time and understand that it is difficult to fit everything in.

But please people – be a patient patient. Turn up on time if you are in a clinic or have an appointment, and do not turn up five minutes before closing and expect to be seen. Above all, never be abusive to someone who is caring for you. It is never, ever acceptable.

Thanks to everyone who took part

DIABETES UK would like to say a big thank you to the swimmers who helped raise £14,984.77 across London by taking part in our Swim22 event.

The 22-mile length of the challenge is equivalent to swimming the English Channel, a distance which local swimmers tackled at their own speed over three months earlier this year.

Sponsorship helps us to fund research, campaign on key issues, and offer education and support to more people who are living with diabetes.

There are more than 430,000 people with diabetes in London, a number that is growing rapidly – but the right support at the right time helps people to manage it and live long, healthy lives.

Swimming is a great way of keeping physically healthy which, along with eating a healthy diet, can help you maintain a healthy weight and therefore reduce your risk of Type 2 diabetes, and help all those with the condition to manage it.

The good news is that individual and team registrations are now open for next year's Swim22, which starts in February 2016. And as you can tackle the 22 miles all at once or over the three month period, it's open to all fitness levels.

Visit www.diabetes.org.uk/swim22 to register.

Food, clothes and medicine sent to storm-ravaged isle

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A WOMAN whose family was caught up in a tropical storm that engulfed a small Caribbean island has single-handedly launched her own fundraising drive.

Laura James-Fanning of Wakefield Road, Bounds Green, began her mission to collect clothes, food and medicine earlier this month after her mother and sister were caught in the midst of tropical storm Erika, which hit the Caribbean island of Dominica where they live, on August 25.

At least 31 people have been reported missing and 20 people have been confirmed as dead.

"Roads have been completely destroyed, people in the rural areas are now completely cut off, and the farmers can't get their produce to market, so they cannot make money and the rest of the island can't get food.

"The storm has been absolutely devastating for the island and the prime minister of the country has said it has taken the island back by 20 years in terms of infrastructure and development."

Laura's mother, who is originally from Dominica, worked as a nurse in England before retiring 10 years ago and her sister works as a solicitor, but is now determined to move back to England.

Prime Minister Roosevelt Skerrit addressed the nation in the days after the storm and advised residents to share diminishing resources with each other.

Appeal: Laura James-Fanning

Laura knew how desperate the situation was, and because the international aid effort for such a small island is negligible, she decided to work with her sister to take matters into her own hands.

The pair decided to build up their own small relief effort, with Laura co-ordinating the collection of medicines, non-perishable food and clothes from her own area and shipping to her sister in Dominica, and she will distribute the provisions among the needy on the island, which is home to 72,000 people.

She said: "The efforts of my neighbours and the people in the street have been amazing. I had never seen anything like it.

"They have given clothes, supermarkets donated food, and children even chose which of their own toys they would donate.

"The neighbourhood is really close and I wrote letters to all my neighbours, and now we are getting ready to send two big blue barrels and a pallet of aid to the country."

Laura is sending the aid packages to the country at her own expense and while she says that she would love to do more collections for the islanders, at £100 a time, the cost of sending a barrel of aid is an expense that few can afford.

While this round of fundraising has come to an end, Laura wanted to thank all her neighbours for contributing so much.

"It has become like a full time job," she added. "Everyone has come together and shown such generosity and I am sure everyone who receives it will be very grateful."

Going green: Dave Cockle and John Cordell have been working to brighten up Enfield Chase train station

Railway cuttings prove productive

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A GREEN-FINGERED conservationist has been rewarded for brightening up a corner of a neglected train station.

Dave Cockle, chairman of the Enfield Society, won a certificate of commendation from the annual Enfield in Bloom awards for cultivating cheerful bright red geraniums on platform two of Enfield Chase train station in Windmill Hill.

The station sees thousands of commuters pass along its platforms every day, but is known for its badly lit platforms and eerie isolation once rush hour has passed.

"I wanted to brighten things up," Dave told the Advertiser.

"If you have a bit of planting, it shows people care about the place.

"I remembered when Bush Hill Park station used to have gardens. It made it look like a lovely train station, and I thought 'let's do something here'."

Although he has paid for some of the planters and plants himself Dave was given a grant of £50 from Great Northern Railway, which operates the trains that pass through the station.

This summer Dave teamed up with his gardening buddy John Cordell and the pair grew pots of bright red geraniums, and even managed to grow strawberries on planters on the platform, which they shared out among staff in the station.

And the pair have big plans for how to keep the station looking cheerful even as winter draws in.

"Winter pansies," Dave explains.

"They are smaller than geraniums, but they are able to survive the winter frosts and storms so we will still have our little platform garden, even when winter starts to bite."

The Great Northern station manager for Enfield Chase Bill Hamilton said: "We're thrilled with Dave and John's work which has really brightened up the station for our passengers."

Anyone wishing to volunteer to help make the station greener can get in touch with Dave through the Enfield Society via chairman@enfieldsociety.org.uk

Update your Will for free and rewrite a child's future

Writing or updating your Will is a big decision and can seem costly. That's why we've teamed up with two Will-writing services that are simple and completely free to use until 30 November 2015.

Choose our partners at The National Free Wills Network to be put in touch with your nearest participating solicitor. Or, if you'd rather, The Goodwill Partnership can arrange for a trained advisor to visit you at home, who will discuss your wishes in detail before passing instructions on to a solicitor.

With either service, there's no obligation to leave us a gift in your Will. Although, once you've considered all the important people in your life, we hope you'll be inspired to kindly leave a legacy donation to our hospital.

Free Will-writing services to suit you. Choose the service that works best for you. Then let a specialist help you with the rest.

Rivals clash over Mini-Holland plan

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TENSION is rising over plans to transform the borough into a cycling haven.

Proposals to create a safer space for cycling in Green Lanes from Enfield Town through Winchmore Hill and Palmers Green to the North Circular road are currently under consultation.

In 2014 Enfield Council won a £30million grant from the Mayor of London's office under the Mini-Holland scheme for outer London boroughs.

However, a group consisting of Palmers Green residents and businesses is objecting, and many shops along the proposed routes are now plastered with posters, flyers and postcards warning shoppers about the perils of the scheme and promoting a series of meetings convened by Enfield Southgate MP David Burrowes.

The leaflets, posted through people's letterboxes as well as being distributed in shops and businesses, urge residents to "stop Enfield Town to Palmers Green Cycle Superhighway now".

Activists are urging people to send letters to their local councillors, or attend a public meeting organised by Mr Burrowes, and suggest making donations to the "fighting fund" by making cheques payable to the Green Lanes Business Association care of Palmers Green businessman Costas Georgiou.

Mr Georgiou explained that the campaign under the banner of Save Our Green Lanes needs money to fund the production of the volume of literature they are using to publicise their campaign.

He said: "We have printed about 30,000 leaflets and 25,000 postcards. Most of the people delivering these are volunteers but we will need to pay people to deliver them as we cannot rely on people's generosity."

He stressed that the primary concern of the campaign is the loss of on-street parking and the impact moving bus stops would have on the vulnerable and elderly. He added that campaigners believe the consultation itself is flawed because the plans are online – and have not been directly posted to households affected.

Daniel Anderson, cabinet member for Environment, told the Advertiser: "A number of the points listed on these postcards and flyers are factually incorrect. For example, they say that cyclists would have priority over all other road users. They would not have priority over pedestrians and they will be in partially segregated cycle lanes so saying that they would have priority over cars is like saying that pedestrians have priority over cars on pavements. They do, because the area between road and pavement is delineated."

"They say that local people wouldn't be able to park in Palmers Green or Winchmore Hill. Again, this is simply false. We are increasing the number of parking spaces in these areas and are even thinking about introducing 30 minutes free parking for drivers."

Mr Anderson acknowledged that the anti-cycle scheme campaign had stolen a march on the council, as more Palmers Green homes have been leafleted by their campaign than the authority.

He said: "We are launching our own leaflet campaign and will be distributing accurate information to 50,000 homes in the area that will be affected."

□ The next Save Our Green Lanes public meeting will be held on Monday at 8pm at the Revival Church in London Road, Enfield.

CHILDREN are enjoying the thrills and spills of a specially designed new playground after tens of thousands of pounds were donated to a school which caters for children with autism.

The nursery-aged children of Russet House School, in Autumn Close, Enfield, have benefited from a £20,000 donation by the charity which ran the former St Peter's pre-school in Grange Park.

St Peter's closed down two years ago when it lost its premises and had some cash left over.

"The donation was so generous," Russet House headteacher Julie Foster told the Advertiser.

"We had recently built some new classrooms away from our main building and in front of it there was only a stretch of grass, which is not very stimulating for young children with autism. "So we worked on a design that would be good for the children's communication skills and social skills. It also helps their movement and balance – it really is just fabulous."

The new playground includes a sandpit and climbing equipment which allows the children to climb across a wooden bridge and access different levels and areas where they can be on their own while still playing with other children.

The charity that ran St Peter's pre-school wanted to give the money they had left when their school closed to a cause that would benefit early years and nursery-aged pupils.

Julie said: "The equipment is so interactive, which is great for our pupils because children with autism tend not to interact a huge amount with each other. This playground gives them a chance for stimulation and engagement with their surroundings."

New letting agent rules to raise living standards

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A CRACKDOWN against rogue letting agents who rip off tenants and landlords has been carried out by the council.

Under new consumer rights legislation, property management companies now have to be registered with a scheme which gives tenants and landlords the right of redress to an independent body, should they be unhappy with the service provided.

The companies also have to display all fees and charges on their websites and at their premises.

Failure to comply can result in a fixed penalty fine of up to £5,000.

Enfield Council's trading standards officers, in conjunction with the housing enforcement team and Enfield Citizens Advice Bureau, checked the borough's 202 letting agents and identified 30 traders needing further inspection and six which were operating illegally, but who complied after advice from trading standards officers.

Daniel Anderson, the council's cabinet member for environment, said: "Letting agents and property management companies must follow strict guidelines to ensure a fair deal for both tenants and landlords."

"Trading standards often do spot checks on companies to ensure that they comply with legislation."

"On this occasion I am pleased to see that, after intervention, six companies that were initially found to be non-compliant are now working to the guidelines."

Bush Hill Park a welcoming and successful school

Bush Hill Park is a large, vibrant, welcoming and successful Primary School with around 660 pupils from Nursery to Year 6.

We have established a culture of high expectations of achievement and believe in providing all children with skills for lifelong learning through engaging them in a rich, challenging curriculum within a shared culture of safety and respect.

We are committed to early reading and mathematics through Read, Write, Inc and Maths Mastery, combined with this we have created a stimulating outdoor provision that encourages discovery, awe and wonder.

At Bush Hill Park Primary School, families share in their child's learning and successes. We believe that working together in a strong partnership is the best way to ensure a child's success.

We expect our children to grow into successful and responsible young people who make a positive contribution to their school and wider community.

Bush Hill Park School has undergone some rapid changes, this has provided a new focus for the school's inspiring leadership team. We have been fortunate enough to attract a high calibre of dedicated teachers and specialist staff.

We are a happy school and work in an atmosphere of respect and trust, where each child feels secure and cared for and has a sense of belonging. During their time at Bush Hill Park Primary School children will be introduced to a wide variety of learning experiences and curriculum enrichment opportunities.

We have great children who are keen to learn and an excellent team of staff who go the extra mile and are innovative and supportive with the children at the heart of everything that they do.

We work hard to ensure that we support our children to become independent, motivated, confident individuals who aim to be the best that they can be!

Jade in Year 10 from Northumberland Park Community School gets creative and wins a Sony competition

During the summer holidays I attended the Creative Media Camp at City University, where we were given a design task and networked with professionals from the creative industry, some of their work included many well-known adverts, such as Churchill Insurance, SBTV creator Jamal Edwards, Sony, Sky 'Inside Out' and many more.

I was able to meet the creatives, an employee from SBTV and a artist who is currently producing the Foo Fighters next album cover.

They shared their experiences with us, gave us key tips on how to pursue a career within the creative industry and how to pitch. We had lots of fun, took part in many activities and group work.

We were given a design brief by Sony to recreate DVD covers and make them appeal to millennials (15-34 year olds). We were placed in groups based on our abilities and talents. We designed a product, which we titled 'Pebble', created an advert and pitched our idea.

Our team became good friends, which helped us work well with each other; we made sure everyone was involved and had a key part to play. Our group, Flow, won!

The winning prize was a goodie Sony bag, which included Sony DVDs such as the Interview, a book, 22 Jump Street jacket and sunglasses, Wedding Ringer T-shirt, a chappie USB stick and watch and a Breaking Bad calendar. We were also invited to join the Ladder, which is a place where we work with the Ideas Foundation and at the end of it we will have a secure job in the creative industry.

During this amazing experience, I gained communication, presenting and team work skills, learnt how to make an interesting pitch, and multiple animation skills.

I would highly recommend anyone to attend the next Media Camp if you are looking to pursue a career within the creative industry or enjoy art, media or design, as it was a really enjoyable experience with lots of opportunities.

On their marks: Mayor Patricia Ekechi prepares to get the 3k race underway

Keep on running...

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

RUNNERS limbered up to raise thousands of pounds for charities working with people with dementia.

It was the 17th Mayor's Fun Run through the grounds of Forty Hall in Forty Hill, and the sun shone on the runners as they headed to the starting line for the family fun event, which aims to get people raising money while enjoying exercise with family and friends.

Mayor Patricia Ekechi started the event, on Sunday morning.

This year 600 athletes signed up for a total of three events, with Thomas Grimes completing the 10k run in 36 minutes 10 seconds and Alex Baird taking the first place for women with a time of 42 minutes and 34 seconds.

The 3k run, for junior runners, was won by Oliver Douglas in 10 minutes and 40 seconds, with Maya Horner the first girl home in 12 minutes and 34 seconds.

Other participants walked a 3k course around the route at the hall at Forty Hill.

Later in the day Forty Hall welcomed guests who were exploring the historic mansion as part of the London Open House weekend.

Feeling the heat: Ben Dervish cools off after the 3k race

David's Frankly fabulous

Swing when you're winning: David Alacey as Frank Sinatra

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A CONCERT celebrating a century since the birth of Frank Sinatra is being held in Potter's Bar on Sunday.

Portraying Ol' Blue Eyes will be David Alacey, regarded as Britain's number one Frank Sinatra tribute act.

The 42-year-old impersonator pays homage to one of the world's greatest entertainers in the Frank Sinatra Centennial concert at Wyllotts Theatre in Darkes Lane, Potters Bar.

The lavish production, which is currently on a nationwide tour, also features special guests – evergreen British stars Anita Harris and Kenny Lynch, both of whom knew the singer personally and will recount stories about him in between performing Sinatra-related songs.

Actor and singer David has been imitating Ol' Blue Eyes in cabaret and theatre shows all over the world ever since leaving school.

The uncanny way he phrases songs and talks like Sinatra and shares his unique mannerisms are so spot on that jazz pianist Buddy Greco, a pal of Sinatra's during their Rat Pack Las Vegas days, said of David: "This guy really is Sinatra."

David explained: "I was so fortunate that my parents took me to see him perform live twice when I was young, and from then on that was all I wanted to do."

"Thankfully I was able to achieve my ambition to such an extent that one of Frank's best friends – Buddy Greco – became a dear friend of mine and we have worked together many times."

"He is even godfather to my daughter Liza, which is such an honour for a kid from Essex," he added proudly.

The show features the 13-piece Buddy Greco Big Band under the direction of Paul Drakely, with Las Vegas-style dancers and includes hit songs and anthems made popular by Sinatra such as Come Fly With Me, The Lady Is A Tramp, My Way, Strangers In The Night and of course, New York New York.

Tissues at the ready for sob story

MISS YOU ALREADY (12A, 112 mins)

IN 1988, Beaches starring Bette Midler and Barbara Hershey was the weepie du jour for a generation of women hankering for a bittersweet portrait of steadfast sisterly solidarity.

Bottom lips still quiver, more than 25 years later, to the first notes of Midler's soaring ballad, Wind Beneath My Wings.

It's been a long wait but actress Morwenna Banks provides 21st century gal pals with their own sobathon as screenwriter of this occasionally foul-mouthed comedy drama set in the shadow of breast cancer.

There are tears aplenty in Catherine Hardwicke's film, predominantly shed by lead actresses Toni Collette and Drew Barrymore as they rage against a cruel disease that affects one in eight women in the UK.

There is humour and pathos too, not least in one beautifully handled scene between a wig maker (Frances de la Tour) and Collette's patient, as they select a new permanent barnet to replace the flowing locks lost to chemotherapy.

Pleasingly, Banks's script doesn't paint characters as saints or martyrs.

They are deeply flawed and behave badly, even at their lowest ebb, propelling a wrecking ball through a marriage when they should be fighting for survival.

Collette and Barrymore play best friends Milly and Jess, who met at school and have shared pivotal coming-of-age moments like losing their virginities.

Now 30-something and fabulous in radically different ways, the pals are braced for middle age.

TEARJERKER: Drew Barrymore and Toni Collette

Milly is a PR executive with a handsome husband Kit (Dominic Cooper) and two cherubic offspring, Scarlett (Honor Kneafsey) and Ben (Ryan Lennon Baker).

Bohemian earth mother Jess lives on a houseboat with her oil rigger husband Jago (Paddy Considine) and cluckily prepares for the arrival of their first child.

Out of the blue, Milly is diagnosed with cancer and has to confront her mortality without her designer high heels.

As usual, Jess is by her side every painful step of the way, including a double mastectomy that forces Milly to question her femininity.

Timed for release ahead of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, Miss You Already is galvanised by believable screen chemistry shared by the two leads.

Barrymore oozes adorability, while Collette has the meatier role and teases out the selfishness of her ambitious career woman, who has always prided herself on being able to arouse her husband.

Scenes of Milly pre and post-surgery are moving, leavened by flashes of humour as friends and family attempt to buoy Milly's spirits: "Come on Frankentits. Let's get you bandaged up!"

Plotting is a tad haphazard and a protracted 250-mile trek to the Yorkshire Moors creates unnecessary conflict.

Thankfully, screenwriter Banks redeems herself with a well-judged final act that tugs our heartstrings without feeling like we're being shamelessly manipulated into reaching for another tissue.

Planning Consent granted for nearly 1,000 homes in Enfield

Plans to build nearly 1000 new homes at the former Alma Estate in Enfield have been given the go ahead. Enfield Council has approved Countryside's proposals to regenerate the post-war housing estate by building 993 new homes along with shops, a gym, medical centre and community facilities.

The project is the borough's largest housing estate renewal scheme and it will act as a catalyst for the wider regeneration of the Ponders End area. Richard Cherry, CEO Partnerships at Countryside comments: "It is great news that these plans, developed with our architect Pollard Thomas Edwards and planning consultant Terence O'Rourke, have now been approved.

We look forward to working with our partners Enfield Council and Newlon Housing Trust to deliver new housing and significant improvements to this area. Our vision is for a development with a strong sense of community where people will be proud to live and that will stand the test of time for generations to come."

The new development will include homes in a range of sizes and tenures including private sale, council rented homes and shared ownership homes to be available through Newlon Housing Trust.

The vision is to create a sought-after place to live, with aspirational homes located close to the high performing local schools, new community facilities and good transport connections by road and rail.

The proposals include the development of Station Square at Ponders End railway station, creating a new gateway into Ponders End and transforming the area.

The Alma Estate was identified as a priority for regeneration because it is costly to maintain, suffering from structural defects and is unpopular with residents. Consultation showed overwhelming support from residents, with 84% in favour of the comprehensive redevelopment of the estate.

The plans involve the demolition of existing properties, including the four 23 storey tower blocks, replacing them with well designed, energy efficient new homes in a range of sizes and layouts. All existing council tenants on the Alma Estate will be able to move into a home in the new development if they choose.

Property tips

As the weather becomes autumnal, store outdoor furniture in a shed or consider covering them. Some furniture is not designed to remain outside in all conditions and may start to look weathered therefore detracting from an otherwise attractive garden.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

- Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
- 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
- To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.
- The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
  - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
  - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
  - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
- The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
- Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
- The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
- Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
- All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
- All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
- Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
- The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
- Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
- All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
  - (1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
  - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
- Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
- All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
- All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
- The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
- The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors. Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

SON IS PRAISED BY POCHETTINO

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

HEAD coach Mauricio Pochettino hailed Heung-Min Son after the Korean international continued the hugely encouraging start to his Tottenham Hotspur career by scoring the only goal to give them a 1-0 victory at home to Crystal Palace on Sunday.

Son, a summer signing from Bayer Leverkusen had made little impact on his debut against Sunderland the previous weekend – but he marked his first appearance at White Hart Lane by scoring twice in a 3-1 win at home to Qarabag in the Europa League on Thursday.

And he followed this with an excellent all-round display against Palace, capped by netting the decisive goal on 68 minutes to give Spurs their third successive win.

“We’re very happy with Son,” Pochettino said. “He’s adapted well. It was a good goal and we fully deserved the victory.”

“He scored twice against Qarabag and only played for an hour. I am very pleased with him, very happy. His adaption to the club has been good from the beginning.

“I think I explained before the Sunderland game that Son can play like a striker. He can also play wider. He has the quality to play in different positions on the pitch.”

The player himself was understandably delighted to have found the net again, and is hoping to make his mark again when Tottenham host bitter rivals Arsenal in the third round of the Capital One Cup tonight.

“I’m really happy because we won the game and of course because I scored,” Son said. “Christian Eriksen played the ball to me, it was one against one with the centre-back. I went to my left foot and shot. Perhaps it was a little lucky.

“It was really amazing. The fans were incredible. I’m really happy. It was hard work. Palace were strong and they have a good team. We really wanted to win this game, every player worked hard and it was amazing to win.

“Arsenal is a big derby, I heard about it in Germany. I’m happy to play in this game. Now we need a good recovery. We want to win.”

Son’s excellent form is in stark contrast to the continued struggles of Harry Kane, who – despite scoring twice for England – is still waiting for his first Tottenham goal of the season.

Pochettino has backed Kane to come good soon, but believes that he needs to be given support to help him refine his scoring touch.

“We need to help Harry and take the pressure away from him,” the head coach added. “I think he is calm. He works really hard in training to try to score again. I have no doubt he will start to score again.

“It was a very tough game against Palace. They are a good team and it was difficult for us. We played Qarabag on Thursday and it’s never easy, but I thought the energy we showed was amazing and we fully deserved the victory.”

Delighted with new signing: Mauricio Pochettino is thrilled with the impact Hyeung-Min Son has had

Key men commit themselves to Skolars

THE London Skolars have already begun their preparations for the 2016 rugby league season by agreeing new deals with a number of their existing squad.

The Skolars endured a generally disappointing campaign in Kingstone Press Championship One, but did at least finish in encouraging fashion by being far more competitive in their final few matches.

And the side will hope to be able to build on this next year after a number of key figures committed themselves to the club for 2015 – including skipper Dave Williams and powerful forward Will Lovell, widely considered to be one of the best players in his position in the division.

“This has probably been the Skolars’ toughest year,” said director of rugby Mark Croston. “Both Dave and Will have worked tirelessly to ensure we came through our early season struggles and will be part of a very exciting 2016 for the club.”

Fellow first-team regulars Sam Nash, Billy Driver, Aaron Small and Dion Chapman have all resigned, along with talented youngsters Anthony Cox, Sam Druce and Kazeem Faturoti-Edwards.

Nash and Driver both featured heavily for the Skolars during their improved form towards the end of the season – which finished earlier this month – with Driver scoring five tries in 15 appearances and Nash, who had never played rugby league before this year, crossing the line three times in six games.

Small is in his second spell with the Skolars, having spent two years with the Hemel Stages, and has converted from playing in the centres to the second row, while Chapman is a front-row forward.

Second-row forward Faturoti-Edwards made huge strides during the 2015 season as he forced his way into the starting line-up on a regular basis, making 16 appearances in total.

Druce made an impact at hooker when given the chance to impress, while prop Cox made 13 appearances last time around – mainly from the bench.

Croston added: “We are determined to finalise our 2016 squad soon, enabling us to focus on a new and exciting league structure next season.”

Meanwhile, the London Skolars have announced that they will face Super League giants Wigan Warriors in the annual Capital Challenge at the Honourable Artillery Company ground in the City of London on January 22.

Tickets, costing from £15, are available by calling 020 8888 8488.

Borough stuck at foot of the table

A PAIR of 3-2 defeats in their past two matches have left Haringey Borough firmly rooted to the foot of the Ryman League Division One North table.

Borough, promoted to this level after winning the Essex Senior League title last season, are still searching for their first win of the campaign and are now two points adrift at the bottom following the narrow losses at the hands of Barkingside on Tuesday last week and Bury Town on Saturday.

The home clash against Bury saw the unbeaten visitors take control early on as they scored twice inside the first five minutes.

The opening goal came from the spot, with Bradley Barber making no mistake after David Lampshire had been brought down just inside the box, and Noel Aitkens doubled their advantage moments later at the end of a fine move.

Dewayne Clarke squandered a great chance to reduce Borough’s deficit on 19 minutes when he headed narrowly over, and the hosts fell further behind nine minutes later as a Barber corner was only partially cleared and Craig Nurse was on hand to fire into the net.

However, the hosts refused to lie down and they handed themselves a lifeline when Ashley Fashanu pulled a goal back two minutes into the second half.

Fashanu was thwarted by a fine save from Bury keeper Neil O’Sullivan on 55 minutes, before Remi Garrett and Aitkens both squandered good chances to grabbed a fourth for the visitors.

Daniel Ailey gave the hosts further hope by scoring with a powerful header from a free-kick with seven minutes remaining, but they were unable to grab an equaliser as Bury held on for the win.

Tuesday’s match at home to Barkingside saw Ashley Taylor-Forbes give Borough the lead, only for goals for Alfie Wren and Luke With to put their visitors ahead.

Dean Fenton equalised on 81 minutes, but they were only level for four minutes as George Lutaaya scored what proved to be the winner for Barkingside.

Haringey Borough face trips to Romford on Saturday (3pm) and Harlow Town on Tuesday (7.45pm).
